CURTAIN CLUB CAST STAGES PLAY AT SPRING CITY HIGH

Craigie, Stoudt Enact Hard Roles In Ridley's "The Ghost Train"

On Saturday evening, February 13, the Ursinus Curtain Club under the Direction of Professor and Mrs. Sibbald gave its initial presentation of Arnold Ridley's "The Ghost Train" before a large audience in the auditorium of the Spring City High School.

A smooth performance of this exciting mystery play was turned in by an excellently coached cast. The principle roles were taken by Paul Craigie '38, who essayed the difficult comedy role of a silly Englishman who in the course of events solves the mystery of the ghost train, and by Mary Helen Stoudt '39, as the hysterical young woman who turns out to be an accomplice of the crooks at the bottom of the ghost train mystery.

They were ably supported by the other members of the cast who were as follows: Alice Plunkett '38, Elizabeth Ware '38, Marthella Anderson '40, James Baird '38, Robert Gross '39, William Wimer '39, Eli Broidy '38, Arthur Martin '38, and Keith Thompson '40. Anne Colsher '38, was the prompter.

This Friday evening, February 19, "The Ghost Train" will be presented at the Stewart Junior High School in Norristown.

TREND TOWARD DEMOCRATIC CONSTITUTION AND PRESIDENTIAL LEADERSHIP, NOT FASCISM, SAYS DR. BARNARD IN ANSWER TO "ARE WE HEADED TOWARD A DICTATORSHIP?"

By Dr. J. Lynn Barnard Professor of Political Science

Every once in a while some one who ought to know better has a brainstorm over the danger of a Dictatorship that threatens our Democracy. Not so long ago one of these alarmists informed us that "Of the many serious situations confronting the liberty-loving citizens of America today, none is more fearfully dangerous than the threatened breaking down of the safeguards of our civil and religious liberties, and the destruction of those guarantees of economic justice and stability which are embodied in our national Constitution." Alarming, if true, but it isn't.

To begin with, our Federal Constitution has been steadily democratized ever since 1789. It is now well understood that the makers of the Constitution deliberately framed it so as to safeguard the rights of private property. The days of revolution, of tearing down, had ended and those of reconstruction, of building up, had arrived. And the Federalists were right in laying secure foundations in the Constitution. But by no stretch of the imagination can the original Constitution be considered a democratic document.

However, the democratizing process began at once. Space forbids more than a mere reference to some of the steps that were taken, such as the Bill of Rights; the Civil War Amendments to safeguard

Men's Debating Club Starts Season Tonight

Minimum Wages Question To Be Debated Against Elizabethtown

OREGON STYLE TO BE USED

The Men's Debating Club of Ursinus College, starting with a wealth of experienced debaters from last year as well as a number of new members who have previous forensic experience, are now starting on a long and hard schedule. The teams were selected this year on a competitive basis. Trial speeches were prepared and delivered to determine each person's ability. The men are working under the tutelage of Professor Harvey Carter and Dr. James Boswell.

First Debate To-night

The Debating Club will formally open its season in a contest with Elizabethtown tonight in Bomberger Hall at eight o'clock. The question for debate is resolved, that Congress Should Be Empowered to Regulate Minimum Wages and Maximum Hours for Industry. Ursinus will defend the affirmative angle while their opponents will endeavor to break down their argument by assuming the negative position. The Ursinus debaters will be Douglas Mertz '38, and Charles Barnes '40. The Oregon style of argument will be used.

Several Trips Planned

In addition to the home debates the club has planned several trips during the campaign. One of these excursions will be to Western Maryland, February 17th, to Gettysburg the following night, Elizabethtown on Friday afternoon and Franklin and Marshall the same evening. The negative team to make this trip will be composed of Charles Wallick '38, Henry Laughlin '38, Alfred Gemmell '39, and Samuel Laucks '39.

On March 15th the club has scheduled a radio debate with Swarthmore College Debating Club over station WIP at 3:15 o'clock.

Boys Lead Girls On Dean's, B List

Brodbeck, Maples Place Most On B List; Freeland and Lynnewood Last

CHEM-BI GROUP HEADS BOTH

The dean's list and its opposite, the B list, have again been posted. By analyzing them closely, there are many interesting facts to be found that are not evident at a casual glance.

Of the 50 on the dean's list, 36 are boys and 14 are girls. Also on the B list the male element is predominant, with 26 boys as compared to 21 girls. Evidently the males cover the two extremes.

By classes, the freshmen head the dean's list (or should we say tail it) with 26 who failed to make the grade. In ascending order are 21 sophomores, two juniors, and one senior.

The seniors head the B list with 30, while the juniors, the only other class which may be represented on the B list, are 17 in number.

Shreiner Takes Honors

Of the girls' dorms, Shreiner takes the honors with none on the dean's list. There are four close seconds, Maples, South, Lynnewood, and Fircroft, with one each. Glenwood and Day Study are next with two, and "612" and Clamer bring up the rear with three each.

On the B list, Maples is first with 6. Second are Glenwood and Day Study, who each came through with four. South and Shreiner have three each, and Lynnewood has one.

Of the boys' dorms, Stine has the smallest number on the dean's list—three. Curtis runs a close second with only four. Freeland and Derr have five each, Day Study has nine, and Brodbeck 10.

Although Brodbeck has most on the dean's list, it also is best represented on the B list, with 11 Brodbeckians in evidence. Day Study is second with six. Derr and Curtis are tie with three, Stine has two, and Freeland one.

The group classification is as follows:

Dean's List—Chem.-Bi. 21, Hist.-Soc. 11, English 6, Eus. Ad. 5, Phys. Ed. 4, Mod. Lang. 2, Math. 1.

B List—Chem.-Bi. 13, English 13, Hist.-Soc. 9, Mod. Lang. 8, Math. 3, Bus. Ad. 1, Phys. Ed. 0.

Editorial Comment

CAN'T IT HAPPEN HERE?

In his reply on page one to "Are We Headed Toward a Dictatorship?", Dr. J. Lynn Barnard answers no. Yet, while he says it will not happen here, he does not say "It can't happen here".

Although we agree with Dr. Barnard, there is still plenty of room for question. The decision that will be reached on the present issue before the nation, one that seems to be precipitating perhaps the greatest crisis the United States has known since the Civil War, might give us a pretty fair indication of whether or not it could happen here. If the President's plan for judicial reform receives the support in the Senate it did in the House, in spite of much adverse public opinion, who is to say how far-reaching subsequent legislation may become? Without attempting to take a stand editorially on a question far too complicated to attempt to analyze in this column, we merely throw out a question as food for thought,—can't it happen here?

THINK FOR YOURSELF

A college student too often does not think about why he came to college, but rather what he will do now that he is here.

Of course, it is possible to have plenty of good times while in college—dancing, participation in athletics, and engaging in extra-curricular activities. In fact, some times it seems as though there are too many opportunities for having good times, and so the real objectives of an education are forgotten. Every student while in college could acquire a polished manner, a breadth of knowledge, and prepare for a profession which may or may not be overcrowded when he is graduated; but this does not mean he has gotten all that is possible out of his college education.

More important than all of these objectives is the development of the power to think for himself, of analysis, and of sound judgment. There is no doubt that this is the best preparation for what is in store for the college student after graduation.

To develop these powers, instead of memorizing and reciting political or economic laws, they should be discussed and understood and their development watched day by day as they are put into force in current events. Books should be read not to pass outside reading exams, but rather to find out what the author has to say and why he said it.

So it follows if the college student can develop these powers while in college he will, incidentally, be able to amass knowledge and have had an excellent training for any business or profession which he may enter.

GAFF from the GRIZZLY

The "groom" insists they were not attempting elopement. Heck. It looked good: a laundry kit; Esh-back; and Terry, The Glenn-side Miss Thierolf, all three walking toward Trappe. You'll see Terry and Esh together more often, by the way.

We wish to advise him that though the Poling chieftain escorted MacNair to the Lorelei (alias Amazon Night), her frequent letters to Swarthmore place the local red-headed Romeo only one Jump ahead of Ashby.

Hecker Balsis, Hecker Balsis. This is the last time, however, that we will give people an insertion simply on their boast that they haven't been in Gaff since they came here.

COURSE CHANGE

The one o'clock class in freshman English will henceforth be known as Quibble 1-2. Departmental honors have been awarded to Keithy - Weithy Thompson, head quibbler.

It's happened. Spencer and Tazanne. To Friday night's Amazon Party. (Amazon, but true!)

Welcome, Hiatus!!!

Remembering ruefully that a temporary hiatus in the serving of that delectable Oriental dish, chow mein, came about because we dared to mention it in this here paper, several students have suggested that we try the same tactics regarding the fish and pink soap suds of Black Thursday fame.

So Lecrone sighs, thinks of the days before Moyer, and hitch-hikes home.

Two disgruntled young men on Amazon night were Whipper, whose having to work gave Die-Hard the run-o'-the-evening with Virginia Caroline; and "Joe College" Meisenhelder, who though realizing that the naive Miss Anderson is some stuff, nevertheless regrets a wee bit that his first love, the Library Lady, turned in her invitation late, not soon.

RAMBLINGS

It seems very probable that the general run of co-eds at Ursinus are somewhat wealthier than the male students. It is no secret that a fairly large proportion of the men on campus are doing what was known about a decade ago as "working their way through college." Ursinus has for quite some time catered to that type of student which is rather more intelligent than well-to-do, in consequence of which your average Ursinus man is the recipient of what is generally known as a scholarship. In reality, it is a grant-in-aid.

However, that is neither here nor there, except that the actual situation is that fewer women proportionately than men at Ursinus get financial assistance from the administration, which would seem to indicate that the co-ed on this campus is better fitted in pecuniary resources than the male student.

This conclusion is borne out very ably by a bit of ballyhoo that will take place this very week, notably the sorority formal rushing parties.

When a fraternity sets out to capture a commendable group of new men, it depends predominantly upon the thickness of the associations which have been made through the entire first semester between its members and the freshmen. Hence the rushing parties are not very much more than a convenient situation in which to drive home the final charge of high-pressure apple-polishing. All that is required to do this is a place off campus where the dirty work can be done in privacy and enough food can be provided to satisfy the common expectations of the freshmen. The cost of all this, during the present rushing season, hovered around the fifteen dollar mark for each fraternity.

But do you catch a local sorority spending only fifteen dollars? No sir, you do not. There is a current rumor that one sorority will hand out not less than sixty dollars, three-fifths of one hundred samolians, for the privilege of entertaining a bunch of girls that will probably be smaller in number than the slimmest attendance at any one of the five fraternity functions. And it is a known fact to some people that one other sisterhood spent seventy dollars for its formal rushing shindig last year. Now for the Ursinus campus, thinking in masculine language, these expenditures are no small change.

The reason for it is very probably that the sororities hope to bring home the bacon by impressing their rushees. Though, of course, there are exceptions, as we all know, the general policy of the sororities is to act somewhat aloof during the whole first semester, and then when the appointed time has arrived, to swoop down in the grand manner. The grander the better, but it takes a pile of filthy lucre, which expression by the way is trite as to almost provoke a typographical error and tend to the word tripe.

Speaking along this line of exclusive organizations, it may or may not have been apparent to the average looker-on, but it is a striking thing to note that the fraternities hereabouts are no longer exclusive. Within the last two years fraternities have undergone a metamorphosis that has well-nigh doubled the number of new pledges admitted during the rushing season.

Though the discrepancy between the sizes of the class of 1938 and the class of 1940 is very small, the number of juniors now in fraternities is 31, whereas the number of new men pledged this year was 61. Of course, several of the freshmen pledged two years ago never came back, but then this was offset by the admissions made later from the present junior class. So you see, fraternities are very remarkably less exclusive this year than two years ago.

But just you wait and see if things don't change back the other way again within the next two years. The next several incoming classes are going to take it on the chin, because this fraternity business goes in cycles, the way the economic situation and a lot of other situations do. For several years the boys are snooty; then the ranks get low, the way they did this year, and all hands make for mass production, until the frats get topheavy once more; then it's safe to get cherchey again.

So if you freshman lads take to fraternities very hard, you can consider yourself lucky you came around at just the right time.

Sara Ennis '37, chairman of the program committee, proposed a succession of discussions on interrelated subjects, but no definite topic has as yet been chosen for the next meeting. It is also planned at some future meeting to have the freshman team discuss a current problem.

Pitt University has passed a decree making it necessary for each student to show his picture of identification when attending any athletic event or any time when they use their student tickets.

The new point system, which includes a record of the extra-curricular activities of every student, to be kept by the student council, grades the relative value of various offices, and no student may carry more than a certain number of points. It is hoped that greater student interest in activities will follow increased opportunities for holding student offices. (N. S. F. A.)

Because a Washington and Lee student showed unusual courtesy to an unknown visitor on that campus, the afore-mentioned visitor bequeathed the college the sum of $1,500,500.

Wellesley's mythical swimming pool remains a girlish dream, as it has, lo, these thirty-seven years, ever since the inaugural of the Swimming Pool Fund. Same is still 85,000 moist dollars short of its $200,000 objective. Meanwhile Wellesleyites remain thankful for tiled showers, the watery wastes of Lake Waban.

A day student of the University of Kentucky has figured that he uses 800 gallons of gas yearly in traveling the thirty odd miles from his home. He covers an average of 11,800 miles.

Excerpts Taken From "Little Tales Told With Book Titles"

These excerpts are from "Little Tales Told with Book Titles" by Benjamin A. Fryer. The tales were read at the annual meeting of the Wyomissing (Pa.) Liberty Association on January 18:

Another year has "Gone With the Wind" and Scarlet O'Hara, although she "Stooped to Conquer," did not get the man she wanted "To Have and to Hold," for she could not "Live Alone and Like It."

"The Merry Wives of Windsor" make "Much Ado About Nothing," have everything "As You Like It," and to them, "Man, the Unknown," is not a mystery at all, for they practice "What Every Woman Knows" and never attended "The School for Scandal."

Why did "Robin Hood," "Rob Roy," when he could have secured "Big Money" from the "Count of Monte Cristo."

"Wake Up Alone and Like It" was enjoyed by "The Man on the Third Floor Back," who could not "Be Glad You're Neurotic."

"The Heavenly Twins" did not know "The Fighting Angel" and he did not appreciate "The Exile."

"The Call of the Wild" was heard by "Tom Sawyer," and "Pud'n Head Wilson" urged him to visit "Treasure Island."

"Lincoln Steffens Speaking" is "Twice Told Tales," having said more than enough in his "Autobiography."

"The Girl of the Limberlost" did not wed "The Harvester" and it was "Love's Labor Lost."

"The Winning of Barbara Worth" pleased "Pollyanna."

"David Harum" had "Freckles," but he was a better man than "The Late George Apley," who should never "Return to Life."

"The Bartered Bride" does not refer to "Mrs. Simpson" and "The Last Puritan" does not approve her fearing "Taming of the Shrew" may be necessary.

"Vanity Fair" proves that Becky was too Sharp and did not appreciate "The Pilgrim's Progress" which supplied the title for her book.

"The Private Life of Helen of Troy" is not in "Plutarch's Lives," and the same is true of "Mary, Queen of Scots," who thought "Elizabeth" was catty.

"Outlines of History" fills as many pages as "Anthony Adverse," but is not as exciting.

"Webster's Dictionary" is larger than either, but for continuous reading is not entertaining, for Noah changes subjects too often.

"The Story of Mankind" does not include "Captain Blood," "Captain Courageous," "Bluebeard" or "William Jennings Bryan."

"East Lynne" is not a sequel to "Westward Ho!"

"The Three Guardsmen," wearing "The Red Badge of Courage," singing "Barrack Room Ballads," while "Fighting Their Weight in Wildcats," were "Born to Raise Hell," "With Fire and Sword," "From Atlanta to the Sea" but were not in "The Charge of the Light Brigade," or "Forty Days on Musah Dagh," looking for "The Queen's Necklace."

"I Write As I Please," has much "Personal History," about "The Way of the Transgressor," and "Now It Can Be Told" to "The Wide, Wide World," but "I Found no Peace."

"Boy Meets Girl" in "The Garden of Allah," at "Journey's End" but found no "Honey in the Horn."

Take "Tobacco Road" through "Green Pastures" to "The Petrified Forest," stopping at the "House of Seven Gables," to borrow "The Scarlet Letter," already having read "The Tale of Reading Town."

"The Boy in Spats" knew "Life With Father," and loving "Lady Nicotine" had "No Reason for Anger" and did not need "Laughing Gas."

"The Education of Henry Adams" may have caused the "Letters of Mrs. Henry Adams" which are not as entertaining as "A Business Man's Letter to His Son."

"The Captains and the Kings Depart," but "King Tut" came back.

"Lazarus Laughed" with envy on hearing of "Morgan, the Magnificent."

No "Pride and Prejudice" for "Little Women."

"Robinson Crusoe" would have welcomed "The Wandering Jew."

"Napoleon" was not a good husband, but "Josephine" did not complain, knowing that "Arms and the Man" insisted on privileges.

"Reveries of a Bachelor" were not interesting to "Brigham Young."

"The Flowering of New England" was not based on seed catalogues.

Barbara Stanwyck says: "Luckies make a hit with my throat"

"When talking pictures arrived, my stage experience on Broadway gave me my chance on the screen. Taking care of my throat became serious business with me, so I changed to Luckies—a light smoke. Of course I smoke other cigarettes now and then but sooner or later I come back to Luckies. They make a hit with my throat and also with my taste."

Miss Stanwyck verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. Grizzly Courtmen Drop Hard Fought Contests; Basketeers Give Way To Muhlenberg, St. Joe

Bears Are Defeated 32-17 After Showing Best Form Of Year

TWORZYDLO HOLDS DOWN ACE

The Ursinus courtsters played their best ball of the season, but dropped a 32-17 decision to the strong St. Joseph's quintet on the St. Joseph's Prep floor Saturday.

The victors, one of the strongest teams in the East, presented a smooth passing attack which, coupled with consistent accuracy on shots, gave them the verdict. The game was, however, much closer than the score indicates.

An outstanding feature of the game was Frank Tworzydlo's close guarding of Matt Guokas, St. Joseph's center and one of the leading scorers in the Philadelphia district. Tworzydlo held the Hawks' center to three points while tabbing two himself.

Oakes and Langan with eight points apiece bore the brunt of the St. Joseph's attack. Power led the Bears with five markers, closely followed by Bodley and Costello with four each.

WRESTLERS DROP 3RD MEET; REYNOLDS SCORES ONLY WIN

Three Members Participate for 1st Time Against Lafayette

The Ursinus wrestling crew dropped its third match on Saturday afternoon to Lafayette, 27 to 5. The Bears' five points came as a result of Captain "Spider" Reynolds' continuance of his winning ways. This is the 126 pounder's third consecutive victory—all of them via the pin route.

Several of the Ursinus grapplers were making their first appearance in college competition on Saturday. Charlie Wynkoop stepped into the "hard-luck" 145 lb. division vacated in successive meets by Lipkin and Althouse because of injuries. Jim Russo replaced George Meklos in the 155 lb. class when the sophomore football guard was injured in practice. Aaron Otto replaced Heck Balsis, injured in the Temple match, at the 175 lb. station.

Although the score was somewhat lopsided, only three of the Grizzly grapplers were pinned, four victories going to Lafayette by the referee's decision. This week will be a busy one for the team as they journey to Haverford on Wednesday and entertain Johns Hopkins on Saturday in their initial home meet. Several of the injured men are expected to be ready for these meets.

Summary:

118 pounds—Yost, Lafayette, won referee's decision from Hayashi.
126 pounds—Reynolds, Ursinus, threw Rogers with crotch and half-nelson in 3 minutes 41 seconds.
135 pounds—Warner, Lafayette, won referee's decision from Guest.
145 pounds—Doolittle, Lafayette, threw Wynkoop with hammer lock in 5 minutes 56 seconds.
155 pounds—Grier, Lafayette, threw Russo with bar reverse in 7 minutes 47 seconds.
165 pounds—Gerhart, Lafayette, won referee's decision from Irwin.
175 pounds—Agard, Lafayette, threw Otto with cross body in 2 minutes 45 seconds.
Heavyweight—May, Lafayette, won referee's decision from Knoll.

Mules Win 37-22 After Bears Tie Score Five Times In Tight Game

BODLEY BENCHED FOR FOULS

Rebounding from their defeat at the hands of Gettysburg, Muhlenberg handed the Ursinus five a thirty-three to twenty-two setback this past Wednesday night in an Eastern Pennsylvania League contest played at Collegeville. This was the eighth straight defeat for the Bears.

Power started the ball rolling for the locals when he sank a long shot in the first few seconds of play. Kohler converted a charity toss for the visitors and Costello followed suit for the Grizzlies. A score that was tied up five times in the first half finally ended nineteen to seventeen in favor of the Muhls.

Early in the second half Bodley and Costello went to the showers via the personal foul route. Power and Costello led the scoring for the locals, accounting for six and five points respectively. McKee and Kohler garnered ten points to take the lead in the evening's scoring.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

After watching both the boys and girls basketball teams in action your columnist is willing to wager that "Bunny" Harshaw wouldn't be held scoreless in any of the boys tilts. This is only a suggestion.

When Howard Gushard played his last game of basketball last year for the Grizzly Cubs the fans thought that the good old clowning days would be gone forever. However, Charles LeLisle Louis Hearey gave the onlookers new hopes in the Perkiomen fray.

Day by day in every way the soccer team feels better and better.

Frederick (maybe Chippy) Glatfelter recently regenerated Gustavus V. Johnson thus terminating the brawl which began last week. Glatfelter has been reinstated as fourth assistant freshman basketball manager. The previously announced decision has been reversed in favor of "Chippy".

One lucky break that the basketball gladiators got was that they didn't have to attend the Lorelei. Oh for the life of a courtman.

It has been suggested that the reason the basketeers can't get hot is due to the short chilly haircuts. I refer in particular to "Big Ug Woo," "Hinkle" Edwards, and "Wimpy Gook" Lauer.

Yours truly thought that this game of basketball had gone modern until the other night when he saw a foul called for face guarding. Great things—these glass eyes.

Overcoming a ten point lead held by Gettysburg at halftime, the Diplomats of Franklin and Marshall staged an uphill rally to win thirty-nine to thirty-six this past Wednesday night. It looks very much as if F. and M. will again be "the tops" this year.

Co-Ed Varsity Defeats Mt. St. Joe; J. V.'s Fall

Harshaw, Von Kleeck, Erdman Lead Scoring for Varsity

HUBER STARS FOR JAY-VEES

For their first home basketball game of this season, the girl's varsity team easily defeated Mt. St. Joes by a score of 32-10 in Saturday morning's two court game. However, the Chestnut Hill team retaliated in the second team game by defeating the "J. V." 26-17.

The first half of the varsity game was a walk-away for Ursinus with the combination passing of Harshaw, Von Kleeck and Erdman piling up a score of 17-0. However, Mt. St. Joes offered more opposition in the second half, making their 10 pointers despite the excellent guarding of Meyers, Fenton and Shoemaker.

In the second team game Ursinus seemed unable to cope with the opposition and before the first half was completed, Mt. St. Joes was far in the lead. In the second half, Ursinus made an attempt to tie the score, but the final result was a 26-17 victory for Mt. St. Joes.

Keehn Injured in Girard Encounter After Running Wild 1st Half

Don Kellett's Cub basketeers won their fourth straight game on Saturday, downing Girard College 30-25 at Philadelphia.

The Bear frosh started out strong and piled up an 18-9 advantage at the end of the first half. Girard came back in the third quarter, tallying eight points and holding Ursinus scoreless to whittle the Cubs' lead to 18-17, but Ursinus racked up twelve points in the final period to put the game on ice.

Bob Keehn was hot for the Frosh, accounting for fifteen of the Bears' eighteen points in the first half. Al Scrobe, Girard guard, led his teammates with five field goals for ten points.
